
FOR RELEASE: JANUARY 10, 2024

PA 2024 ELECTIONS: BIDEN ON UPSIDE OF TOO-CLOSE-TO-CALL RACE, QUINNIPIAC UNIVERSITY PENNSYLVANIA POLL FINDS;
CASEY OPENS UP DOUBLE-DIGIT LEAD IN SENATE RACE

In the key swing state of Pennsylvania, President Joe Biden and former President Donald Trump remain in a too-close-to-call hypothetical 2024 general election matchup with 49 percent of registered voters supporting Biden and 46 percent supporting Trump, according to a Quinnipiac (KWIN-uh-pea-ack) University poll of registered voters in Pennsylvania released today. This marks the first time in Pennsylvania that Biden has a numerical advantage over Trump in the 2024 presidential race.

In October, a Quinnipiac University poll in Pennsylvania showed Trump with 47 percent support and Biden with 45 percent support. In June, Trump received 47 percent support and Biden received 46 percent support.

In today's poll, Democrats back Biden 96 – 4 percent and Republicans back Trump 89 – 7 percent. Independents are divided, with 45 percent supporting Trump and 44 percent supporting Biden.

In a five-person hypothetical 2024 general election matchup that includes independent and Green Party candidates, Biden receives 41 percent support, Trump receives 39 percent support, independent candidate Robert F. Kennedy, Jr. receives 11 percent support, Green Party candidate Jill Stein receives 4 percent support, and independent candidate Cornel West receives 2 percent support.

“Pennsylvania, so crucial and so close, again takes center stage as the swing state with the electoral heft to decide the election,” said Quinnipiac University Polling Analyst Tim Malloy.

GOP PRIMARY

In the 2024 Republican presidential primary, former President Donald Trump receives 61 percent support among registered Republican voters in Pennsylvania, former United Nations Ambassador and South Carolina Governor Nikki Haley receives 14 percent support, Florida Governor Ron DeSantis receives 10 percent support, former New Jersey Governor Chris Christie receives 6 percent support, and entrepreneur Vivek Ramaswamy receives 4 percent support.

Among registered Republican voters who support a candidate in the 2024 Republican presidential primary, 13 percent say it is very likely that they will change their candidate choice if the candidate they are currently supporting is not a winner in one of the early primary states, 21 percent say it is somewhat likely, 16 percent say it is not so likely, and 45 percent say it is not likely at all.

DEMOCRATIC PRIMARY

In the 2024 Democratic presidential primary, President Biden receives 77 percent support among registered Democratic voters in Pennsylvania, author Marianne Williamson receives 12 percent support, and U.S. Representative from Minnesota Dean Phillips receives 4 percent support.

PA SENATE RACE

In the U.S. Senate race in Pennsylvania, incumbent Democratic Senator Bob Casey leads Republican challenger David McCormick 53 – 43 percent. In October, Casey led McCormick 50 – 44 percent.

In today's poll, Democrats (94 – 4 percent) and independents (55 – 39 percent) back Casey, while Republicans (87 – 9 percent) back McCormick.

“A big infusion of Indie support makes one of the most closely watched Senate races in 2024 a not so tight race,” added Malloy.

JOB APPROVALS

Job approval ratings for Pennsylvania elected officials and President Biden:

- Governor Josh Shapiro: 59 percent approve, 23 percent disapprove, with 18 percent not offering an opinion;
- Senator Bob Casey: 51 percent approve, 31 percent disapprove, with 19 percent not offering an opinion;
- Senator John Fetterman: 45 percent approve, 42 percent disapprove, with 13 percent not offering an opinion;
- President Joe Biden: 40 percent approve, 58 percent disapprove, with 1 percent not offering an opinion.

“Governor Shapiro gets all the love with approval numbers other politicians would take in a Pennsylvania minute,” added Malloy.

SENATOR FETTERMAN

Roughly one-quarter of voters (26 percent) say they think more favorably of Senator John Fetterman for expressing strong support for Israel, while 14 percent say this makes them think less favorably of him, and 57 percent say it has no impact on their view of him.

Roughly one-third of voters (35 percent) say they think more favorably of Fetterman for expressing support for tougher immigration policies, while 9 percent say this makes them think less favorably of him, and 52 percent say it has no impact on their view of him.

It has been almost a year since Fetterman checked himself into a hospital to be treated for clinical depression. He is publicly talking about his mental health struggles and nearly 4 in 10 voters (39 percent) say they understand more about mental health struggles in general now because he is sharing his experiences, while 57 percent say they do not understand more about them.

An overwhelming majority (86 percent) think stigmas about mental health still exist, while 10 percent think they do not.

“Backing Israel and getting tougher on immigration score points for Senator Fetterman and sharing his struggle with depression clearly struck a meaningful chord with some voters,” added Malloy.

MOST URGENT ISSUE

Given a list of 11 issues and asked which is the most urgent one facing the country today, 24 percent of voters say preserving democracy in the United States, 23 percent say border security, and 15 percent say the economy. No other issue reached double digits.

There are wide gaps by political party.

Among Republicans, the top issue is border security (46 percent) followed by the economy (25 percent).

Among Democrats, the top issue is preserving democracy in the United States (44 percent), with no other issue reaching double digits.

Among independents, the top issues are border security (22 percent), preserving democracy in the United States (22 percent), the economy (15 percent), and the cost of living (13 percent).

ECONOMY

One-third of voters (33 percent) describe the state of the nation’s economy these days as either excellent (3 percent) or good (30 percent), while two-thirds (66 percent) describe it as either not so good (30 percent) or poor (36 percent).

Forty-four percent think the nation’s economy is getting worse, 29 percent think it’s staying about the same, and 26 percent think it’s getting better.

Sixty-four percent of voters describe their financial situation these days as either excellent (10 percent) or good (54 percent), while 33 percent describe it as either not so good (24 percent) or poor (9 percent).

A majority of voters (61 percent) think their income is not keeping up with the cost of living, while 36 percent think their income is keeping up with the cost of living.

U.S. – MEXICO BORDER

An overwhelming majority of voters (84 percent) consider illegal immigration at the U.S. border with Mexico as either a very serious problem (59 percent) or a somewhat serious problem (25 percent), while 14 percent consider it as either a not so serious problem (11 percent) or not a problem at all (3 percent).

Nearly 8 in 10 voters (79 percent) think Democratic congressional leaders should compromise on their positions on border security to come to an agreement with Republican congressional leaders, while 15 percent think they should not.

More than 6 in 10 voters (63 percent) think Republican congressional leaders should compromise on their positions on border security to come to an agreement with Democratic congressional leaders, while 32 percent think they should not.

1,680 Pennsylvania self-identified registered voters were surveyed from January 4th – January 8th with a margin of error of +/- 2.4 percentage points.

The survey included 651 self-identified registered Republican voters with a margin of error of +/- 3.8 percentage points and 746 self-identified registered Democratic voters with a margin of error of +/- 3.6 percentage points.

The Quinnipiac University Poll, directed by Doug Schwartz, Ph.D. since 1994, conducts independent, non-partisan national and state polls on politics and issues. Surveys adhere to industry best practices and are based on random samples of adults using random digit dialing with live interviewers calling landlines and cell phones.
